IMPERATIVE SENTENCES:

- Imperative sentences are one of the four sentence types (declarative, interrogative, imperative, exclamative).
- The typical form (structure) of an English imperative sentence uses the base verb with no subject. In fact, many imperative sentences consist of nothing but the verb.
- Imperative sentences can be in positive or negative form, and can refer to present or future time.
- Normally when we use the imperative there is no subject because the subject is obvious—it's YOU! Sometimes, however, to make the subject clear, we do use a subject.

- Speaking with imperatives could show a wrong idea about yourself;
- In some cultures, especially if the person is from abroad, speaking with imperatives can be really rude and unpolite – you could get communication problems.
- Avoid using imperatives unless you really need it.
